Birth Control Only Way To End War Is Congress' Decision

(U. S. Navy Radio Through Reuter)

America's Unknown Hero Is Laid To Rest In Arlington; Nation Stands At Attention

Sun Bursts Through Clouds As President Begins His Eulogy Of Soldier—Highest Military Decorations Are Laid On Breast Of Man Typifying All Those Who Fell In World War

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Nov. 12.—The funeral cortege of the American Unknown Soldier arrived at the Arlington Cemetery shortly after 11 yesterday. The amphitheater was filled and thousands were standing outside. The audience rose as the casket was carried in. Marshal Foch, General Jacques, General Diaz, Earl Beatty, Sir Auckland Geddes and M. Briand in war regalia were present.

President and Mrs. Harding arrived at 11.50. The chaplain offered up a prayer at noon sharp. The bugle sounded stations and everybody stood. The nation paused for two minutes. The band played "America." Secretary Weeks made a brief speech in preface to the President's speech.

As President Harding began his speech, the sun broke through the clouds and blue sky appeared. Then there was another prayer and the Metropolitan Opera chorus sang "The Supreme Sacrifice." The President pinned the Congressional Medal of Honor and the Distinguished Service Cross on the head of the casket. General Jacques took the Belgian Croix de Guerre from his own breast and pinned it on the casket. Earl Beatty pinned on the Victoria Cross, never before given to a man not a British subject.

The Earl of Cavan, representing King George personally, referred briefly to the service to the Unknown Soldier, which was rendered not only in America but in the world. Marshal Foch bestowed the French Military Medal. General Diaz bestowed the Italian Gold Medal for Bravery. The Rumanian, Czecho-Slovakian and Polish medals were bestowed, and the hymns "Oh! God, our help in ages past" and "Nearer, my God, to Thee" were sung. The casket was then borne to the sarcoophagus and committed to the stone crypt with earth from the soil of France. The ceremony was conducted by Bishop Brent, former Senator and Chaplain of the A. E. F.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Under the starry skies in his own homeland America's unknown soldier sleeps. He lies in a narrow cell of stone that guards his body but his soul has entered the spirit that is America's. On the monument which stands behind his tomb is the legend which runs "We are highly resolved that these dead shall not have died in vain", the words which were spoken by Lincoln at Gettysburg.

Today with a voice of determination and bringing deep emotion, another president echoed that high resolution over the coffin of soldier who died in France for the flag. Great men in the world's affairs heard the highly purposed words reiterated. They will speak of the war in France and in their

Every Day At Auto Show To Have Special Program

A program of "special days" for the automobile show that will open at Verdun Gardens a week from Saturday was announced by Chairman Friedman, of the entertainment committee, at the regular meeting of the Executive committee at the Palace hotel last evening. The program follows:

Saturday, Nov. 26, "Opening Day;" Sunday, "Concert Day;" Monday, "Children's Day;" Tuesday, "Chinese Day;" Wednesday, "Outport Day;" Thursday, "Shanghai Day;" Friday, "Society Day" and Saturday, "Gala Day."

On opening day Mme. Wilden, wife of the French Consul General, will officially open the main show building at 12 o'clock, and the dancing pavilion at 9 o'clock the same evening. On these occasions a number of distinguished guests will be present by special invitation of the Executive committee, including the members of the Consular body and of the two Municipal Councils, prominent civil and military officials, foreign and Chinese, and other leading figures in the community. The ceremonies, while brief, will be impressive and colorful.

EVERY DAY A SPECIAL DAY

It is the plan of the entertainment committee to make each day of the exhibition of special interest to all visitors, and of special interest to those for whom the day will be set aside. On "Children's day" all youngsters under twelve years of age will be admitted for "half fare," and a special musical program will be arranged for their entertainment.

For Sunday Mr. Friedman has arranged a concert of singing and instrumental music, with a number of local artists in the stellar roles.

"Chinese Day," which is expected to be one of the big days of the show, will be set aside for the special entertainment and benefit of Chinese visitors to the show. On this day every effort will be made by the exhibitors to interpret the meaning of the show to the Chinese. In every booth there will be native experts in the various lines represented by the displays, to explain the exhibits and to answer all questions. The special entertainment features for this day have not been entirely arranged as yet by Mr. Friedman and his assistants, but they promise to put on a program that will be long remembered.

MASQUERADE BALL

On the last night of the show there is to be a grand fancy dress and masquerade ball that is expected to tax the capacity of the immense dancing pavilion that has been erected immediately adjacent to the main exhibition building. Valuable and handsome prizes will be awarded for the best and most original costumes worn on this occasion.

Chairman Friedman also announced that he had obtained an imposing array of talent for the nightly cabaret entertainments that are to be part of the dancing pavilion features. These numbers will start at 9:30 and continue at intervals during the evening, between dances. On "Shanghai night" Mr. Friedman announced that he would have ten special cabaret numbers.

At the meeting of the Executive committee last night it was again emphasised that exhibitors will have to hurry if they want to get their displays in on time. The buildings are finished and ready for the installation of railings, platforms, extra wiring arrangements, etc.

Those who will need current for extra lights or for small electric motors are urged to communicate with W. C. Gomersall, of the engineering department of Jardine, Matheson and Co., Ltd., immediately. The light wires are now being put in place and extra wires must be arranged for now if they are desired.

Work was started yesterday on the decorations and already a large section of the ceiling is strung with evergreen ropes that are to constitute part of the decorative scheme. The decorative posts at the corners of the booths and along the aisles are all in place, and are now being covered with white paper. By the end of this week the building will be ready for the installation of exhibits.

U. S. Delegates To Disarmament Conference

CHRISTMAS MAIL SHOULD BE POSTED ON THESE BOATS

Hoosier State And Wenatchee Sailing On November 19 And November 22

All those who intend to send Christmas mail to the United States are urged to get their letters and parcels to the American Post Office as many days before the next ships sail as possible, as a measure to relieve holiday season congestion here and in the States. It is emphasised also that those mailing parcels should see that they are properly passed by the Chinese Customs before they are presented at the Post Office to avert delays. Each parcel should have the regular customs declaration attached.

The bulk of Christmas mail from Shanghai, particularly that destined for points in the eastern states, should go on the steamer Hoosier State of the Pacific Mail, which will sail from Shanghai on November 19 and is due to arrive in San Francisco on December 7. Letter mail leaving on this boat will arrive in New York about December 12 and parcel mail will arrive in New York about December 18, insuring delivery before Christmas.

Following the Hoosier State the Wenatchee of the Admiral Line is due to sail from Shanghai on November 22. The Wenatchee is due to arrive at Seattle December 9. The steamer Empress of Japan of the C.P.O.S. will sail for America on November 26 and mails sent on this ship destined for points in the western and middle states will arrive before Christmas. The Tenyo Maru will sail for America on December 1 and will also carry mail.

The logical steamers to carry Christmas mails are the Hoosier State and the Wenatchee, as they will arrive in ample time for delivery of mails to virtually every part of the United States before Christmas.

MEET TOMORROW TO ORGANISE FOR FLOOD RELIEF

A dinner and meeting for the purpose of organising an International committee to handle flood relief for the sufferers in Anhwei, Kiangsu, Hupeh, Chekiang and Shantung provinces will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, North Honan Road.

The meeting has been called by General Ho Feng-lin, Defense Commissioner; Mr. C. F. Hsu, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs; Mr. C. C. Nieh, Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mr. Chu Pao-san, former chairman of the Chamber.

Short addresses will be given by Mr. C. T. Wang and Mr. G. H. Stitt, of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation.

According to the Chinese press Tuchun Lu Yung-hsiang and Civil Governor Sung Ching-keng of Chekiang will attend the dinner.

Just Buy Gold Dragons And Buddhas For Xmas Gifts

By Elsie McCormick

As we may have remarked once before, Christmas shopping in the Orient bears no more relationship to the same occupation at home than a bottle of catsup does to a cat. Shopping on the other side of the ocean may seem to be time[illegible] with adventure, but [illegible] of basement [illegible] gain counters, suggestions about what to get for "him" or "her," merchandise orders tied up with a piece of holly to take off the curse of a money gift, and a certain resignation and hopelessness on the part of recipients smooth out the path of the Christmas shopper as a steam roller does an asphalt pavement.

Perhaps the greatest of these aids is the Christmas specialty counter. We once saw one of them in the middle aisle of a leading homeside department store featuring near-leather gift copies of Omar Khayam, and that year we received eight invitations to split a loaf and a pint of grape-juice. The next year the counter featured boudoir caps, and we reaped seven. As we sent out nine, however, the balance of trade was in our favor. The other two brought back Christmas cards.

IS IVORY BONE OR NOT? . .

In China, however, Christmas shopping involves journeys up narrow streets, entertaining callers with embroideries and lacquer wrapped up in white flour-sacks, rubbing alleged amber beads to see if they will pick up pieces of paper, trying to decide the fine anatomical point of where ivory ends and bone begins, and looking over Thibetan lanterns to see that they bear no trade-mark registered in Washington.

Suppose the shopper at home, instead of paying the $1.98 registered on the price-tag, had to haggle half an hour with the shop-girl over each purchase, suppose instead of finding everything under one roof, he had to rush into a dozen alleys, and suppose, instead of leaving deliveries to the express department, he had to do up the parcels, take them down to the Customs Office, do them up again, take them to the American post-office, and have them weighed, registered, and stamped, with profanity streaming from every pore. Though we have considerable confidence in the generosity of our friends, we are willing to predict that the custom of gift-giving would soon be as extinct as a chain-mail tournament.

DRAGONS SPELL CHINA

In sending gifts home, it is well to remember that nobody wants anything that he can buy in his own home town. He or she wants dragons and lots of them—dragons that twist as though suffering from colic, dragons wiggling through the mazes of the shimmy, and tame dragons on their way to Sunday-school. The next choice is long-legged birds with white ruffles around the knees, an opera coiffure on their heads, and a look in their eyes like a lady telephone operator gazing at a picture of Francis X. Bushman. If somehow you can add a touch of the odor that seems to be the distilled essence of China-town at home [illegible] most [illegible] for satisfaction. We don't know just how you can trap that particular scent, though, as we have never noted it in China.

One of the most important standbys of the Christmas shopper is the Mandarin square. When the Mandarins of ancient Cathay originated the style of wearing parallelograms over their bronchial tubes, they little realised that a few centuries hence, people would be sitting on them. Beside forming the nucleus for a sofa-pillow, Mandarin squares may be pressed under glass for tea-trays, swung under near-jade handles for shopping-bags, or

Cuts Off Foot To Keep Wife Home; Fails And Loses Her

WUHU, Nov. 12.—A Chinese member of this community had been worried for several months by his wife seeking the diversion of other men's company. He pondered long over the problem, and finally reverted to primitive methods.

How could he keep his wife from walking about among the neighbors? Why, simply by cutting off her feet. The problem was solved! The next question was the best method of approach. To rush suddenly upon her in the day time with a meat ax in his hand would cause a struggle, and he might manage only to relieve her of a toe or two.

Moreover, how inconvenient to have the neighbors rushing in before the necessary penal act was performed. No, that would not do.

The next morning his wife awoke from sound slumber to find her husband chopping off her left foot in a rapid and business-like manner. Her screams attracted the neighbors in time to save a remnant of the flesh holding the dangling foot.

She was rushed by her family to the Wuhu General Hospital where it was found that the remnant of flesh contained just enough blood supply to keep the whole foot from dying when sewed back in place.

The ankle joint had been cleaved, but fortunately for her, no infection set in and after a few weeks one of her ardent admirers paid her hospital bill and carried her off to nobody knows where.

BRITISH AND U. S. TO HAVE 500,000 AND JAPAN 300,000 TONS

Delegates Aghast When Secretary Hughes Lays Cards On Table And Asks Nations To Abandon Race For Navy Supremacy--His Proposal Favored By British--Japan Says Nothing While Waiting

'GOD CAN'T PARDON HUMAN HATRED'

President Harding Opens Conference By Urging Square Deal For Millions Who Pay In Peace To Die In War—U. S. Has No Sordid Aims

AMERICA proposes that 2,000,000 tons of warships now on the ways or projected be scrapped and that no first line battleships be constructed for the next ten years. This proposal by Secretary Hughes, Chairman of the Conference, may be said to have fairly staggered the other world powers—Japan has not yet found her voice—but as the United States is the greater monetary loser due to abandoning construction that already is well along, it is apparent that America has laid her cards on the table and is sincere in this proposal to cut naval armaments to a minimum hitherto not considered possible by the powers.

"How can humanity justify or God forgive human hatred," asks President Harding who tells the Conference that his country has no sordid ends to serve, suspects no enemy and contemplates no conquest.

In disarmament is more glory for the nations flags than in war, the President asserts, and the rejoicing of mankind over the grounding of arms will make the transcending music of all succeeding generations.

War Weary World Calls You Says Prest. Harding

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Nov. 12.—Secretary Hughes called the Armament Conference for 10.30 in the Memorial Hall of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The Reverehd W. S. Abernethy of the Calvary Baptist Church of Washington opened with a prayer for the success of the Conference.

About the great square table at the center of the Hall the Americans sat at the west end with the French to their right and the British to their left. The Japanese were beside the French and facing the Italians. The Portuguese, Belgians, Dutch and Chinese were at the foot and at smaller tables.

The first applause broke out when the American delegates took their seats. President Harding arrived at 10:33 and Mr. Hughes called the Assembly to order. Following the prayer, Mr. Hughes announced the President of the United States. Greeted with bursts of applause, the President began speaking amidst intense silence.

PREST. HARDING'S WELCOME

"It is a great privilege to bid the delegates of the Conference a cordial welcome. It is impossible to over-appraise the importance of such a Conference. It is not an unseemly boast to declare that the conclusions of this body will have a signal influence over all human progress and the fortunes of the world here in the meeting which is an earnest of the awakened conscience of the twentieth century's civilisation.

"It is coming together from all parts of the world to apply the better attributes of mankind to minimise the faults of international relationships.

"As official sponsor of the invitation, I think I may say that the call is not of the United States alone. Rather it is the spoken word of that war-weary world which is freshly returned from the burial of the unknown soldier, when the nations sorrowed while paying tribute, whether spoken or not, by hundreds of millions of people who were summarising the inexcusable cause of incalculable cost caused, unspeakable sacrifice, and unutterable sorrows and there are the ever impelling questions; how can humanity justify or God forgive human hatred.

"It demands no such toll and ambition and greed must be denied.

"If misunderstanding must take the blame, let understanding rule and make that goodwill reign. Everywhere in the world, staggering with debt, needs its burden to be lifted by the world's hundreds of millions who pay in peace and die in war. I wish their statements would turn expenditures for destruction into means of construction.

NO SORDID AIMS

"Gentlemen of the Conference, the United States welcomes you with unselfish hands. We harbor no fears. We have no sordid ends to serve. We suspect no enemy. We comtemplate no conquest and are content with what we have. Nothing which is another's do we wish.

"We only wish to do with you that greater and nobler task of international understanding and goodwill. The world demands succor and contemplation of the existing order brings the realisation that there can be no cure without sacrifice, not only by one but by all of us.

"No pride need be humbled. No nationality need be submerged, but I would have a mergence of minds, committing all of us to less preparation for war and more enjoyment of peace. We should act together to remove causes of apprehension. This is not to be done in intrigue. Greater assurance is found in exchanges of simple honesty and directness. I want less of armaments and none of war for the world.

"With sane good intentions, I welcome you, not alone in goodwill and high in purpose but in goodwill and high in faith and I hope for that understanding which, I will emphasise, will guarantee peace and reductions of burdens and better order, which will tranquilise the world.

"In such accomplishment there will be added glory for your flags and ours and the rejoicing of mankind will make the transcending music of all succeeding (?) celebrations."

America's Boldness Staggers Humanity In Scope Of Scheme

London, Nov. 14.—The very boldness of conception of the disarmament proposals have "staggered humanity." There is no question however of the cordiality of the reception accorded to the plans in principle in Britain no less than the United States. The grand sweep of the scheme and the transparent sincerity of its presentation has captured the public imagination and admiration, tempered only by quite comprehensible reserve regarding the vital considerations which must engage attention if the proposition can be hammered into shape for common acceptance.

Secretary of State Hughes's dramatic plunge in medias res is contrasted with the old-time diplomatic manner of approaching problems gradually and almost unfailingly.

The hope is expressed that the Japanese will share American and British appreciation of the courage of the statesmen who submitted the proposition, although it is recognised that some experts among the world's three naval Powers will find it very hard to acquiesce in the scrapping program.

It is pointed out that under the scheme by far the greatest loss will fall to America as her ships are near completion. On the contrary no battleship or cruiser is being constructed in Great Britain though a contract has been signed for the laying down of four, costing £32,600,000.

It is conceded that a very searching question is addressed to Japan if she is asked to content herself with a permanent naval strength of 300,000 tons as compared with Britain and the United States with 500,000 tons each, but it is pointed out that the alternative to acceptance is competition, in which she is sure to be worsted and reduced to an even more unfavorable position.

While, however, a degree of enthusiasm is manifest at the prospects of the leading naval powers agreeing to big cuts, the important fact is not lost sight of that the question of a naval holiday and agreement on Far Eastern questions are interdependent.

"Britain And U.S. Have Good Understanding As To Pacific"

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 14.—An explanation as to why America is alleged to have dropped an important part of her naval scheme which was previously intended to be embodied in Secretary of State Hughes's plan is offered by a French correspondent at Washington, who says that England indicated what her attitude in the Pacific would be if the worst came to the worst.

She explained what use she would make of her Singapore base and her definition of policy favorably impressed American circles which were naturally fearful of the fate of the Philippines in the event of a conflict between Japan and America.

Such fears are now removed and America is consequently willing to pledge herself to a scheme of naval limitation which confirms the British Navy in its present position upon the world's sea-routes.

It would have been difficult for Britain to initiate a policy amounting to the virtual suppression of the Anglo-Japanese Treaty, if the United States spokesmen had shown reluctance to make concessions to Japanese interests in the Far East, but the danger of such unyielding policy is now remote, at least as far as Southern Manchuria and perhaps Eastern Mongolia are concerned.

Admiral Baron Kato hardly disguises the fact that the conclusion of a naval agreement implying the abandonment of the Japanese program ought to be dependent on the conclusion of a political agreement about the Far East.

The correspondent also states that the Japanese make the non-fortification of American islands in the Western Pacific the touchstone of American policy throughout the Far East. American circles recognise that the creation of such a fortified base would mean an end to limitation of armaments but consider it unnecessary to insert a distinct pledge in the convention as it would inevitably have an unilateral character.

The correspondent adds that Mr. Hughes told a friend of his:

"Don't worry about the Far East."

Tokugawa Sees Success Of Conference; Fear Dispelled

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Nov. 13.—The general impression prevailing though not yet officially confirmed that the Japanese are agreeably struck by Mr. Hughes's proposals, appears to be corroborated by Admiral Baron Kato and Prince Tokugawa at a reception at the Shoreham Hotel today. The latter said:

"We cannot doubt the Conference's success. If any of us feared failure before departing from Japan, the fear has been dispelled since our arrival. We see earnestness and sincerity everywhere and have seen no unfriendliness."

Admiral Baron Kato declared:

"Japan has brought to the Conference only proffers of friendship and has only sought friendship. With fears on both sides obliterated, agreement as far as Japan and the United States are concerned cannot fail to result. It is with this view that the Japanese delegation will proceed to a more detailed examination of the American proposals."

JAPAN MUST CONSENT

(Reuter Pacific Service)

Tokio, Nov. 14.—There was early comment on Mr. Hughes's naval proposals this morning by writers in several vernacular papers. They are generally greatly satisfied with the sincerity and firm determination with which America is attempting to solve the disarmament problem.

The Jiji states that, though Japan is justified in offering her own counter-proposals, the Government will be expected to consent readily to the American proposal.

The Hochi says that further examination is required but the resolution and sincerity of the American suggestions have greatly enhanced the possibility of restriction.

The Asahi declares that America's anxiety for peace is conspicuously manifested in the proposals and hopes that Japan will not hesitate in supporting them on condition that they do not jeopardise national defense.

The Kokumin believes that the proper balance of naval strength in the Pacific would be maintained, if Japan had twelve instead of ten warships.

KATO IS CAUTIOUS

(Special To The China Press)

Washington, Nov. 13.—Admiral Kato, of the Japanese delegation, in commenting on Secretary Hughes' proposal for limitation of naval armaments, said:

"The American proposal goes very far, but I consider it a good one to have been presented to the conference. The Japanese are not contemplating a counter proposal at this time."

Replying to the question of whether the American proposal was acceptable to Japan, he said that as a basis of discussion the American proposal might be suitable.

"TWO ONLY IN PACIFIC"

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 13.—In an interview published in the Sunday Express, Baron Hayashi said that he believed Japan would agree to President Harding's programme, if America were pledged to it. He declared that America and Japan had been friendly for years.

If the one did not build capital ships, the other had no need to do so. There was no third Power to constitute a menace in the Pacific. Baron Hayashi thought that the programme should be acceptable to all the Powers.

Not Yet Know How Many Perished In Chapei Fire

Kichen Opened To Afford Relief To Hundreds Made Homeless—More Bodies Are Found

No exact estimate has yet been made of the number of victims who perished in the Chapei conflagration of Saturday night and it is possible that the number burned to death may not be known for days. Through the day yesterday when hundreds of sightseers visited the scene of the fire the task of removing the debris and of caring for the hundreds made homeless was carried forward under the direction of the Chapei police. In the course of the work upwards of a score of bodies were found in addition to those removed on the night of the fire and on Sunday.

The area that was burned over is approximately a quarter of a mile square most of which was occupied by a beggar village of thatched straw huts in which the fire started from a cause not yet learned. The official fire brigade report says that about 500 huts were burned and other dwellings were destroyed or partly destroyed.

CHILDREN VICTIMS

Most of the victims whose bodies have been recovered have been found to be children and in most cases identification has been impossible. Many of the inhabitants of the burned area were employed in nearby mills or worked as wheelbarrow and truck coolies. Most of these lost all of their poor possessions.

As a measure of relief a kitchen was opened on the scene of the fire and free distribution of rice to the homeless was arranged for. These sufferers already have set about the work of rebuilding their huts and many have established themselves in makeshift quarters. The area of the fire lies between North Szechuen Road and Dixwell Road extension.

SECOND OF EIGHT

The fire in Chapei was the second of eight from noon on Saturday. The department responded to three calls on Saturday, the first of which was the big blaze of the China Import and Export Company's main mill at The Point. Central Division men had only returned from this fire after a desperate fight through the afternoon when they were called upon to fight a stubborn and dangerous fire in the quarters of a dye hong at 77 Canton Road. This was in a congested block of buildings and the structure alight was in an almost inaccessible location at the end of a blind alley. It was impossible to save the burning structure, but the fire was prevented from spreading. It was found that insurance in the sum of $74,000 was carried on these premises and an investigation of the origin of the blaze is being made.

While the work of putting out the Canton Road fire was in progress under the direction of Assistant Station Officer Gilhooly of Central Division the alarm from the Chapei fire was given.

TURN OUT TWICE

It is noteworthy that when the Hongkew division first went to the scene of the fire they were not asked to give assistance by the Chapei brigade, but merely stood by for a time and then returned to their station. Within a half hour, however, when the flames of the beggar village has swept entirely beyond control of the Chapei brigade a call for help was sent in and the Hongkew division again returned to the scene. The village had then been wiped out and the flames were spreading swiftly in all directions.

THREE MORE CALLS

Sunday night the Settlement brigade responded to three more alarms and a fourth call was sent in yesterday morning. The worst of the Sunday night fires was on Shantung Road where four printing offices opposite the Shun Pao building were damaged. While this fire was receiving the attention of men from Central Division, Sinza Division responded to an alarm from 250 Avenue Haig where a stone mason's establishment was found to be nearly destroyed when the firemen arrived. This blaze was confined to the place of its origin.

Another threatening blaze was stemmed yesterday morning before dawn by Central Division at G820 Fokien Road where a tobacco shop was found alight with adjoining premises burning. This fire was quickly extinguished with but slight damage to the structure.

Since Friday the Settlement department has responded to 11 alarms. Up to date this year 332 calls have been answered and the highest preceding year's record of 325 calls, in the year 1917, thus has been surpassed.

ELECTRICITY FOR OPERATING A MOTOR CAR IS AS LOGICAL AS USING IT TO DRIVE A MILL

An engineer may figure on steam, water or oil to furnish power for a mill or factory but he will always transmit this power to his machinery thorough an electric motor.

Why?

Because of the efficiency and stability of this form of energy.

And the same principle which guides the engineer to select this force for his power plant holds true for a

Milburn
Light Electric

The storage batteries contain the motive power and transmit their force to the driving wheels thorough the simple but powerful electric motor stored away beneath the seat.

hung up on the wall to cover the place where they took out the telephone.

BETTER TO SQUARE THEM

Mandarin squares usually appear as duets, retailing for from $1.50 to $6.00 a pair, according to the amount of gold thread and one's patience as a bargainer. Though a certain taint of modernity suggests that some of the squares have had about as much to do with a Mandarin as an oyster-plant has had with an oyster, the Mandarin square continues to hold all records on the Christmas-tree for being both economical and many talented.

Almost equally deserving of popularity though less well-known is the Mandarin petticoat. Embroidered and marked out into many strips, it hangs over a standing lamp and turns an ordinarily garish room into a den worthy of being pictured in a magazine advertisement for steam radiators. Mandarin petticoats, particularly if they are colored orange, strain the light and filter it until the room in question looks very much like what it ain't.

Popular both for lights and for wall panels are the strips of Soochow cut-work sold by a few local stores and by many itinerant peddlars. These strips, which usually show obese and top-knotted Chinese soldiers arguing down the wall with spears and butcher-cleavers, are not embroidered—the figures are painstakingly cut from silk of many different colors and put together so skilfully that no one can detect the mend.

If we could only train our amah to darn stockings like that, we would enjoy sukiyaki parties a lot more than we do. The strips can be cut up into excellent four-sided shades for hanging bulbs, to say nothing of the possibility of condemning them to unlimited hanging on the gallows of a tack.

SEND GOD OF LUCK TOO

When we mentioned the necessity for dragons and phœnixes, we somehow forgot the Buddha. No home box is considered legal unless it contains a cross-legged god enjoying a good story or a slim-waisted one contemplating the chandelier. If possible, it is well to accompany it with a story of a theft in a temple at midnight and the priest's oath of revenge, though this is not absolutely necessary. When the donor returns, he will find that the idol is the center of more idle stories than the Arabian Nights lady could produce with five typewriters, three dictaphones, and royalty besides her salary.

Lying in wait for the Christmas shopper are a whole retinue of lace-shops, but they, as Mr. Griffiths might say, are another scenario.

CASE AGAINST MOUTRIE NOW IS ADJOURNED

The case in which Mr. R. G. Ashton sued Messrs. Moutrie and Co., Ltd. for $4,000 for wrongful dismissal and $1,000 for assault and battery came up for hearing before Judge Skinner Turner in the British Supreme Court yesterday and was postponed when Mr. Reader Harris informed the Court that his client was lying in the Isolation Hospital with small-pox.

Mr. Harris said the agreement was signed in Toronto, Canada, Ashton arriving here on December 15 last. Mr. Harris submitted letters and a copy of the agreement and stated that Ashton was enaged on a salary and commission basis, but afterwards the firm realised that he was earning more than some of the senior men and put him in another department where his commission was only 2½ percent instead of five percent.

He noticed the decrease in his earnings and put in a claim, but on August 10 he received a letter giving him three months notice, promising to pay his passage back home, offering also to release his wife who was also working for Moutrie's on contract.

On August 20, Mr. Harris continued, Saturday morning about 11:30. Ashton was serving two customers, Dr. Kosel and Inspector Sinclair, who were trying phonograph records in the demonstration room. While he was attending to these a Chinese dressed in foreign clothes came in and asked for some records of the "Bing Boys" and Mr. Ashton gave him a catalogue. The Chinese told him he wanted to get the records through the compradore, who like Mr. Ashton received commission, and Mr. Ashton put him into another room, gave him the catalogue and told him to see the compradore.

SAYS WAS PUSHED OUT

Mr. J. H. Hinton, the managing director, came in with the Chinese and took Mr. Ashton by the arm, pushed him through the door and said "Get your hat and get out," Mr. Harris continued. Ashton asked the Chinese to give him his name, but Mr. Hinton told him not to give it. Ashton asked for his salary, but Mr. Hinton told him to come on the following Monday morning.

Dr. Kosel and Inspector James Sinclair were next called. Inspector Sinclair said Ashton was very courteous and attentive, but he could not describe what happened on the Saturday because he was not there.

Dr. Kosel described Ashton as a "gentleman who has the best interests of his employers at heart."

The Managing director, Mr. Hinton of Moutrie's, called by the defending counsel, Mr. R. G. McDonald, said the trouble with Ashton was not confined to the Saturday morning. Ashton absolutely ignored his authority, was not punctual in the morning and it was Mrs. Ashton, whose work was very satisfactory, who had influenced their treatment of him.

Referring to the Saturday morning, the witness said he came downstairs and saw Mr. Chang, the Chinese customer, who was "excited, upset and injured." After some conversation he took Mr. Chang into another room where Ashton came and stood between them.

Witness said he took Ashton by the wrist and pressed him outside the door telling him to get his hat and coat and to get off the premises.

There was no violence but he adopted that course to avoid trouble as Ashton was looking excited, he said. Never was the word "dismissed" used then or afterwards.

The case was adjourned, sine die, until Mr. Ashton comes out of hospital.

U. S. Honors "Unknown Soldier" Of France

GENERAL Pershing laying the Congressional Medal of Honor on the cushion over the grave of the "Unknown Pollu" of France, in the Arc de Triomphe, Paris. The ceremony was witnessed by six Marshals of France and many other soldiers.

America's Unknown Hero Is Laid To Rest In Arlington

minds must ring Harding's declaration beside the honor-laden bier, "There must be, there shall be, the commanding voice of conscious civilization against armed warfare."

PERSHING FOLLOWS BIER

At eight o'clock the band played "Nearer My God to Thee," and the casket was carried from the Capital and placed on a caisson drawn by six black horses. At eight-thirty the procession started, Pershing walking behind the casket, Major General Bandholtz riding in front as Grand Marshal. President Wilson rode in a carriage. Cabinet officers, clergy, army and navy officers, superior court officials, the Senate, the House, American and foreign notables also followed the bier. The Nation paused for two minutes in tribute to the commemoration of victory.

President Harding's address at Arlington amphitheater was carried by telephone and amplified and heard by great audiences in New York and San Francisco. The following is the text of his speech:

"We are met to pay an impersonal tribute in the name of him whose body lies before us and took flight with his imperishable soul. We do not know whence he came but only that his death marks him with the everlasting glory of an American dying for his country with great devotion. He hates no man.

MUST ATONE FOR LOSS

"On such an occasion as this, our thoughts alternate between defenders living and dead. Our part is to atone for losses to heroes by making a better republic for the living. With all my heart I wish we might say to the defenders who survive, to mothers who sorrow, to widows and children who mourn, that no such sacrifice shall be asked again.

"I speak not as a pacifist fearing war, but as one who loves justice and hates war. I speak as one who believes that the highest function of the government is to give its citizens security of peace and opportunity to achieve and pursue happiness.

"The most loving tribute we can bestow today is the committment of this Republic to an advancement never made before. Let us give of our influence, strength, aspirations, and convictions to put mankind on a higher level with the stars, and keep tragedies barred from the stage of righteous civilization. As we return this poor clay to its mother soil garlanded by love, covered with decorations only nations can bestow, I can sense the prayer of our people and all people that this Armistice Day shall mark the beginning of a new lasting era of peace on earth, good will among men.

"Let me join that prayer of 'Our Father which art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, and deliver us from evil, for Thine is the kingdom, the power, and the glory, forever and ever, Amen.' "

CONCRETE BEAM BEARS UP UNDER 30-TON STRAIN

An interesting test took place Friday in the new building erected for the Chartered Stock and Produce Exchange at the rear of their property, corner of Szechuen Road and Avenue Edward VII. The building was designed by Mr. G. O. Wootten of Messrs. Probst, Hanbury and Co., and Messrs. Ma Fei and Co. are the contractors.

The center portion of the building is a big open area 58 feet by 46 feet, and the floors are carried on re-inforced concrete beams in single spans with no intermediate supports.

The designing of this structure was entrusted to Mr. E. Suenson, who is a specialist in reinforced concrete, having studied statics at the Royal Engineering College at Copenhagen, of which he is a graduate.

One of the beams spanning 58 feet, center to center, was tested. This beam is 15 inches wide and five feet deep with seven tension bars one inch square at the center. This would seem very little and is only possible where the supports and columns are designed in accordance.

At 9 a.m. Mr. W. I. Bidgood of the Municipal Council Public Works Department attached a Deflectometer to the beam. As soon as this was done, coolies started piling on bricks to a total weight of 30 tons, stacking them up on the beam.

When the bricks were all up, Mr. H. Ross, the Municipal Building Surveyor, came to the building, where Mr. Wootten, Mr. Suenson, Mr. Gonda and several others were, and it was found that the beam had only deflected about half a millimeter, or less than the thickness of a ten cent piece.

Of course it is only possible to measure such a small deflection with very fine set instruments. If worked out, it will be found that the beam will deflect nearly two inches before failing.

This test shows that it is quite possible here in Shanghai to use more scientific and economical designing than is usually done, if only the design is carefully and correctly worked out. Many structures of similar design will probably be built here as re-inforced concrete structures can be erected to compete with any as yet carried out in other countries.

Yangtsze Patrol Flagship, Yacht Isabel, Is In Port

The converted yacht Isabel, formerly the private yacht of Mr. John Willys of the Willys Knight Automobile company before it was taken over for war service by the United States government, has been acquired by the American Navy Department and is to be the flagship of Admiral W. H. G. Bullard, in command of the Yangtsze patrol.

The Isabel arrived in port on Saturday, having made the voyage from the Atlantic coast by way of the Suez canal. The vessel will remain in port for several weeks while a number of changes and repairs are being made. A new deck house is being added to the yacht to serve as quarters of Admiral Bullard and his staff. Lieut. Commander Frank Loftin is commanding officer of the vessel, which is somewhat larger than any of the American gunboats and is manned by a crew of a hundred men.

HURON NINE AT HONGKONG WINS OVER RIZAL TEAM

Flagship's Nine Outclass Small Boat's Team Every Way; Score Was 14-0

Hongkong, Nov. 3.—The U.S.S. Huron today defeated the U.S.S. Rizal 14 to a nothing in a six inning game. The Rizal pitchers were not effective and the Huron men scored at ease with well earned runs while Knoch for the Huron was in fine form, only allowing three hits in the first part of the game. Whitehurst who pitched the last inning didn't allow a man to get to first. The Huron men hit well and fielded their positions perfectly. Ensign McLaury, the Rizal's manager played an excellent game, making some nice running catches of balls which would have gone for extra bases. Brennan, the Huron's new short stop who is replacing King who is on his way to the States and Dougherty each showed fine form contributing three hits out of four times. Lamke is holding down second in fine form. Lieutenant Miller, the new manager shows lots of interest in the team and it is hoped that the team will do better under his management than before.

A'mn Football Prospects Brighten With Arrival Of Naval Yacht Isabel

Sailors, Scheduled For Six Months Stay Here, Fresh From Home Keen To Get Into Winter Game; Can Form Light Or Heavy Eleven; Shanghai Plays School Saturday

American football in Shanghai has taken on a most favorable aspect over the weekend with the arrival of the United States Naval converted Yacht Isabel, together with the formal reorganisation of the Shanghai squad into two elevens, one really light, and the other sufficiently heavy for any need.

The Isabel, which arrived in Shanghai direct from Philadelphia is keen to go at football, baseball, basketball or anything else available for exercise. They are not so well equipped with playing costumes, but that can be remedied through borrowings from the Villalobos and the Tracy for the present, and permanently overcome later by purchases of togs in town. Negotiations are now under way for games for the Isabel with Shanghai, and the Shanghai American school as soon as the sailors get their land legs again, and work out a bit on the lawn at the Race Course. The prospects now are that the big game of the year, the Thanksgiving match, will be played between the big Shanghai eleven and the huskiest Isabel team obtainable.

The arrival of the Isabel means much to American football in Shanghai. The sailors last night said they could put out a team of most any size for most any need. It will mean the saving of the American School eleven, as well as of the Shanghai team, for the naval men can meet every Shanghai eleven, in size and weight, and perhaps in football skill. Local football fans are waiting expectantly to see what they develop in the next week or ten days in the way of a light and a heavy eleven.

Next Saturday probably will see the American school eleven again mixing with Shanghai, and this time it is promised that a really and truly light team will be sent against the school boys. Mr. H. B. Gallop, secretary-treasurer of the Shanghai club last night, speaking for the management gave out a new alignment of the squad, with one eleven weighing in at approximately 150, and the other at 170. The lighter eleven will be used against the American school and the lighter Isabel eleven, and the bigger team saved for the stronger Navy team and for interport matches.

Mr. Gallop's lineups follows:

Light eleven—Mahoney, Bud Hewitt, Hick Hewitt, Jack Smith, Stovall, Posnor, Dunn, Neal, Sennett, Burgess and Whitcomb.

Heavy eleven—Neprud, Wilhoit, Jack Smith, Stovall, Hirsch, Whitcomb, Gallop, Neal, Rodger, Dunn and Maloney.

Mensheviks Go To Jail By The 1,000's In Riga

(Reuter's Service)

Riga, Nov. 12.—It is reported from Moscow that a member of the Menshevik or Socialist Revolutionary Party attempted to assassinate M. Tchitcherin, the Foreign Commissary, in his reception room on November 4, firing two shots which missed.

The assailant was arrested and declared that he had acted on the orders of his party. Within two hours 3,000 Mensheviks were arrested.

Mass house searches were carried out on November 5 and 6 in Moscow and elsewhere, resulting in further wholesale arrests of Mensheviks and also the arrest of the Communist leaders, Lunacharski and Skilanski, and many Bolsheviks on unknown charges.

Great dissension exists in Soviet Government circles. The message adds that M. Tchitcherin on the occasion of the fourth anniversary of the Communist Revolution held an official reception at his residence, at which the British agent was present.

LUMBER COMPANY PLANS NEW MILL FOLLOWING FIRE

Work of reconstruction to replace the big mill of the China Import and Export Lumber Company at The Point, which was destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon, is already being carried forward. The mill that was burned was the largest in the Far East and it is to be replaced by one equally large that will be built of steel and reinforced concrete.

Mr. Carl Seitz said yesterday that a revised estimate of the loss to the lumber company places it at between Tls. 180,000 and Tls. 200,000. In addition to this loss, the power plant, which was also destroyed, represents a loss of upwards Tls. 200,000, according to estimates that have been made. The power plant was the property of the Electricity Department of the Municipality. The loss on the mill, Mr. Seitz said, is fully covered by insurance and it is understood that the loss of the power plant also is covered by insurance.

The business of the China Import and Export company is not to be halted either by this destructive fire or by one that preceded it last week in the company's yards at Tientsin, in which it is said a loss of Tls. 200,000 was incurred.

The work done by the mill that was burned is being transferred to No. 2 mill of the company, which with an immense quantity of other property in the fire area was saved through the efforts of the Shanghai fire brigade. This No. 2 mill is being equipped with machinery that was available here and with other machinery being brought to Shanghai from Tientsin. The cause of the lumber mill fire has not yet been ascertained.

Diplomacy Confab Is Hectic Affair

The meeting of the Citizens' Diplomatic Affairs Association, held Sunday at the World's Students Federation, was a lively affair according to reports in the Chinese press.

The meeting was called for 3 o'clock with about eighty representatives of various organisations present and Mr. Yang Chun-ion was elected chairman.

The first report given was to the effect that while donations to the amount of $245 had been received, expenses thus far have been $1,700. The chairman then began to experience difficulty in preventing four or five speakers from delivering addresses simultaneously.

How Ts-fang, representing the Kiangsu Democracy Hastening Association, and cohorts, then withdrew in dudgeon when prevented from bringing up four resolutions which his society had prepared.

During the ensuing din the chairman abandoned the gavel and wrote upon the blackboard the characters signifying that the meeting was dissolved. His handiwork was immediately erased by Oong Yi-yuin.

A speaker then proposed that the people refuse to recognise the Peking Government, which was "selling the country."

Another rose to remark that his federation in Nanking had sent him here to discuss diplomacy as it affected foreign relations and not debate about internal policies, and he would withdraw.

The meeting, the report concludes, broke up at 6 o'clock, but fails to mention whether anything else was fractured.

BAN 20-CENT COINS

According to Chinese press, the Civil Governor of Kiangsu has given instructions to the Director of Customs at Shanghai forbidding the further admission of the new twenty-cent coins from the Canton mint, which contain only a low percentage of silver and for the last few months have been pouring into Shanghai in enormous quantities. This decision is understood to have been made upon complaint of the Shanghai Chinese General Chamber of Commerce.

When the detective returned to make inquiries of the prisoner's foreign employer, Mr. A. D. Bell, of Barlow and Company, he was taken into custody by Detective Sergeant Yorke.

Woman Charged For Killing Her Grandson

Ju Wong-tsz, the woman charged with killing her eleven-year-old grandson at the Ewo Cotton Mill last week, appeared for trial in the Mixed Court yesterday, when the case was remanded for one week to enable the defendant to obtain counsel. The Court stated, in view of the seriousness of the charge, that it would be glad if the Registrar would ask some lawyer to take the case. The allegation is that the woman, who, with her grandson, was employed at the mill became angry when the lad was away from his task for a time and assaulted him, causing injuries which resulted in his death.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
Save the Babies.
INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!
We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.
The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria
Physicians Recommend Castoria.
"I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."
J. E. Simpson, M. D., Chicago, Ill.
"Castoria is good for children and I frequently prescribe it, and always obtain the desired result."
F. Gerald Blattner, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.
"A medicine so valuable and beneficial for children as your Castoria is deserves the highest praise. I find it in use everywhere."
J. S. Alexander, M. D., Omaha, Neb.
"I have prescribed Castoria to families for several years. It is all right. Mothers like it, for children will take it without any trouble."
C. A. Wilson, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.
"Have used your Castoria on various occasions in suitable cases and have found it a painstaking and efficient laxative, especially in the various diseases of childhood."
Chas. Edward Gardiner, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.
"Your Castoria is a splendid remedy for children, known the world over. I use it in my practice and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the complaints of infants and children."

BIG PRICES PAID FOR RARE STAMPS

Philatelists mustered strong on Saturday last at the auction rooms of Messrs. Funder when a collection of rare stamps were offered. There was some spirited bidding and many bargain lines were picked up by the enthusiasts.

In certain cases stiff prices were obtained, for a 2d blue Mauritius stamp dating back to 1848 realised Tls. 220 and a 4d. green stamp of Mauritius fetched Tls. 20.50, while a penny vermillion of that Colony was knocked down for Tls. 150.

The range of offering was fairly wide. There were New Brunswicks, Nova Scotias, Ceylons, Bermudas, Natals, rare Victorians of Great Britian and a few others, and where the antiquity was older or the stamps rarer the bidding was keener. Mr. Charles Pien wielded the hammer in a very efficient manner, the net proceeds being about Tls. 2,300. The remainder of the vendor's collection will be disposed of next Saturday at 2:30 p.m. at the auction rooms of the firm.

BUBBLING WELL BURGLAR GIVEN TEN YEARS BY MIXED COURT

The burglar who robbed the homes of Judge Skinner Turner, Mr. P. Fowler and nearly a score of other foreign residents in the Bubbling Well district was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment yesterday by the Mixed Court.

The accused, one Tsang Ah-hoo, was arrested immediately following the Fowler robbery and confessed that he had been operating in the district, with considerable success, for the past eighteen months. His victims, besides those mentioned, included Mr. A. W. Macphail, 5 Singapore Road; Mr. J. R. Hafgreaves, 152 Sinza Road; Mr. Smith, 16 Connaught Road; Mrs. Thompson, 20 Yu Yuen Road; Mr. R. G. McDonald, 45 Seymour Road; Mr. T. E. Watson, 17 Connaught Road; Mr. H. Figgel, Kiaochow Road; Mr. C. H. Godfrey, 12 Kiaochow Road; Mr. A. H. Gordon, 61 Yu Yuen Road; Mr. Scott, 35 Yu Yuen Road; Miss L. M. White, 30 Kinnear Road; Mr. R. C. Turner, 10 Haiphong Road; Mr. T. Freeman, 22 Jessfield Road; Mr. W. H. Purcell, 60 Seymour Road, and Mr. E. C. Pearce, 46 Hart Road. The man also admitted attempts to rob the homes of Mr. M. Denegri, 19 Kiaochow Road, and Mr. F. Ayscough, 20 Gordon Road.

The capture and conviction are a feather in the cap of Detective Sergeant Beer and the police department in general. Much of the stolen property was recovered.

Exchange Fluctuations
Asia Banking Corporation

November 14, 1921.

Spot bar silver was down 3/16 d. and forward 1/16 d. in London on Saturday.

The New York price declined to 66⅜ cents and the London-New York cross rate is now 394⅜.

The official quotations here today were unchanged from Saturday and the market was steady throughout the day, there being a considerable amount of Franc bills offered and speculators also being quite heavy sellers. In the early part of the afternoon particularly the market was firm, business being done in Sterling as high as 3s. 9 1/16 d. for November and 3s. 8 3/16 d. for December.

Gold Dollars were done as high as 74½ for November and 73¾ for December. These, however, were the highest rates done, and there were always good buyers at these quotations and, in fact, at the close, there were buyers at slightly under these figures.

China sold silver in London on Saturday and India was a small buyer.

The market both there and in New York is quoted as uncertain.

A WARNING TO MOTHERS.

In infantile diarrhoea never give medicine to check the movement of the bowels except upon the advice of a physician. The right treatment is to cleanse the bowels of the irritating secretions which are the cause of the trouble. Many mothers have found Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, immensely valuable for this serious malady.

Baby's Own Tablets contain no opiates and are a proved remedy for teething troubles, constipation, colic, indigestion, simple fever and worms. Of chemists, or from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai at 60 cents the vial, post free.

The Chinese Political Stage

BY JOSEF W. HALL

THE Peking government seems to be disintegrating by Ministries. The Ministry of Finance is in a state of complete disorganisation. This is one reason why foreign loans have been allowed to go into default with such apparent nonchalance.

This Ministry has been the object of political scrambling since the resignation of Chow Tze-chi. Since then it has had no head, Chow's appointed successor having refused to take up office. Pan Fu as Acting Minister, Vice-Minister and head of the Salt Administration, has been the sole personality in the Ministry. That he has not neglected his opportunities is evident by the fact that he is known to have negotiated governmental loans upon terms favorable to himself, his patrons, supporters and retainers. He has had many rivals and enemies, but the unflinching support of Premier Chin, and, it is understood, secret backing of Chang Tso-lin, have assured him in his position as long as he wished to remain.

He wisely dropped out at the moment when the negotiation of further loans was impossible, the Ministry was going into default on two American loans, the Pacific Conference which must consider China's finance was opening, and the forcing of Tuchun Tien out of Shantung by his own people opened the door of opportunity for Pan's securing of the post of Civil Governor of that province.

Upon his retirement, according to report, the books are found to be in bad shape, and the proper accounting of China's governmental funds and even the tabulation of her governmental revenues, resources and liabilities are out of the question. The new Minister, Kao Ling-wei, who is apparently not so completely a Chang Tso-lin man as has been popularly believed, upon visiting the Ministry was aroused over the state of things and threatened to replace all the department heads. Of his two vice-Ministers, Loh Hung-nien is a Chang Tso-lin man, but Wang Shih-yuan, concurrent salt head, is not, and the Mukden chief's protest against Wang's assumption of office has resulted in the refusal of all three heads of the Ministry to attend office.

Meanwhile the department chiefs, having lost face with their new chief, are fulfilling duties only diffidently, and the under officials and clerks are threatening strike because of non-payment of salary. They are particularly wrathful over the report that Pan Fu, upon retiring, set aside a sum for their wages but that the new administration has prevented this money from reaching their hands.

The argument which will be put up by China's delegation in Washington that China does not need foreign financial supervision but merely increased revenue through higher tariffs, could be met very effectively by a recital of a little of the inside history of the Ministry of Finance during the past six months.

The Ministry of War sometime since became inoperative. It is now only a subtitle in a play which is a farce. Of all the empty titles in Peking that of Minister of War is emptiest. The War Lords made a joke out of the post when they appointed thereto Tsai Cheng-hsuan, a man who was at the time laughed at because he could not control and did not dare reside in his own little territory of thirteen counties in Suiyuan, of which he was Tutung.

Naturally the military chiefs have no need for a Minister of War in Peking. Some days ago Tsai, unable longer to endure the gaff, in spite of his thick skin, resigned. He went to Tientsin, where all resignees go. Yesterday he returned to discuss the hope that he may be able to trade jobs with the Tuchun of Shantung. His private car was attached to the train upon which I happened to be a passenger. The first-class coaches were about half filled with Mukden officers and men. I mentioned to a Fengtien petty officer: "Your chief is back there. Does he control you?" Several of the officers gathered about. They laughed with scorn, and stated in the hearing of the entire car: "No, he doesn't control us. We control (kwan) him. We are MUKDEN!"

Sad days for a Minister of War when he is laughed at by a petty officer on his own train.

The appointment of the unwanted Tuchun Tien of Shantung as Minister of War will mark the final step in the turning of that post into a refuge for failures, of the same kind as the present College of Generals, or Chiang Chun Fu.

The Ministry of Justice is the next to go. Tung Kang, Minister, has presented his resignation, while the judges and officials of the Supreme, District and Local Courts as well as of the Ministry itself have met and pledged themselves to decline to proceed with all cases in the courts from next Monday on if they do not receive their back pay before that time. Furthermore, these persons are showing their legal acumen by instituting in the Ping Cheng Yuan, the Court of impeachment, a case against their Minister for failure to meet salaries and mismanagement. The only fear now is that the Ping Cheng Yuan will also go on strike, and the plaintiff judges will be as much without legal recourse on account of the refusal of the judges of official corruption to attend duty as the ordinary supplicant is on account of the refusal of the ordinary judges to attend duty.

The Minister of Education, Ma Lin-yi, has not attended office for weeks and his resignation is persistently in. His Ministry is at a standstill. The latest resignation is from the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce, Wang Nai-bin. And even the clerks of the Ministry of Communications, the only Ministry with a dependable revenue, are threatening strike because of non-payment of salaries.

Apparently all that is to be left of the Peking Government is the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, which contains men of such a sense of responsibility that they carry on in spite of non-receipt of funds; and the Ministry of Communications which maintains the posts, railways, telegraphs and finances the warlords.

After all, warlords aside, these two ministries are all that the Chinese people, in their present state of political evolution, require of a central government.

Did the message of the American Secretary of State contain timely warning or merely friendly advice?

There are few persons or governments who receive "friendly advice" as friendly, and there is no friendly advice which could now be given to the Chinese government which would not be timely warning.

It is hard for the layman to see what the squable is about. Mr. Hughes said something. The words he used were no more important that the implications which the situation must attach to language of ordinary diplomatic courtesy.

Safeguard Baby's Eyes

In Budapest recently a midwife dropped into the eyes of a newborn baby a 10 percent solution of nitrate of silver instead of the 1 percent solution that is obligatory there. The result, of course, was destruction of the eyeball and total blindness. To prevent the recurrence of such a disaster the highest sanitary authorities are ordering that a 1 percent solution of silver acetate be used instead of the silver nitrate, for the reason that it is impossible to make a stronger solution of the former.

Hara's Last Word Was Plea For Peace

Tokio, Nov. 5.—The last statement for publication made by Premier Hara before his death was an interview granted to Mr. B. W. Fleisher yesterday afternoon. The interview was typed and sent late in the afternoon to the Premier, who approved it just before leaving for the station to take the train for Kyoto. In his last public statement, Mr. Hara gave one his best expositions of his policies. The interview follows:

"I not only hope for the success fo the arms limitation conference but I am optimistic as to its outcome. It is my desire that Japan's wishes be made clear; that her delegates will be frank and open, and that misunderstandings, which have piled up, will be swept away. I understand that Mr. Louis Seibold, in articles published in the American press, has made the statement that Japan attaches no great importance to the Conference. This is quite contrary to the truth. Japan attaches the greatest importance to the Conference and is sympathetic to and desirous for its success. Japan appreciates the sincerity of America's motives and purposes. In advance of the Conference we already feel its effects. On both sides of the Pacific public opinion is welcoming constructive ideals and is less responsive to destructive criticism.

WANTED TO GO

"I should have preferred to have gone to the Washington Conference as a delegate, but political conditions at home prevented it. There is the opening of the Imperial Diet which is to be held at the end of next month. Then there are many other questions, such as Shantung and Siberia, which it is my earnest desire to have settled at the earliest possible date, if possible before the early days of the Conference."

The Premier, when asked regarding Shantung, said:

"As far as Japan is concerned it will be seen from the documents already published that Japan approached a settlement with China in the friendliest spirit, proposing terms which we believe to be fair, and which represents the furthest concession that Japan can make. According to unofficial reports China still declines to agree to our terms. I am at a loss to know why China would not grant us this consideration.

"The other day I had the opportunity of meeting a prominent Chinese in an unofficial way, and among the things talked about I asked him why China remains firm in her stand. I called attention to the fact that it is now three years since I became Premier, and I asked this Chinese if there was anything which Japan had done in this period which China objected to. He answered me that there was nothing. To this I replied, asking him why China could not make up her mind to settle outstanding questions, as we have shown our willingness to meet China more than half way."

DESIRED EVACUATION

To the question regarding Japan's attitude on Siberia, the Premier said:

"Up to a comparatively recent date, many governments have been formed in Siberia, but none of them have been sufficiently stable or united to preserve the order or peace of the country. The Far Eastern Republic, with Chita as its capital, is the only one which is likely to be able to maintain order and peace. We have been in conference with representatives of this government at Dairen. I am desirous of withdrawing our troops from Siberia, but we must have assurances that the government of the Far Eastern Republic will not countenance Bolshevist movements and propaganda, and that security of the lives and property of Japanese residents. With such views we entered the conference at Dairen, but it has made slow progress, and it has been difficult this government will assure the to negotiate because of the many objections of the delegates from Chita. I am still in hopes that the Dairen Conference will proceed, and that such accomplishment may come about shortly to permit Japan to withdraw her troops."

When asked regarding the objections that Chita is making at Dairen, the Premier said:

"None of these objections are of a serious nature, such as would preclude the possibility of us coming to terms, but negotiations have been retarded because of the difficulties of railway and telegraphic communications between Dairen and Chita, and because of the change of representatives on the part of the Chita Government. We are somehow apprehensive that Chita is in communication with the Lenin Government, and we fear lest they may co-operate with the representatives of Lenin. A basis for settlement must be found, and I am satisfied that it will be found. It is my desire that these negotiations shall be concluded while the Conference at Washington is still in progress."

HOPE FOR DISARMAMENT

The interviewer then turned to the subject of the reduction of naval armaments. The Premier replied:

"This is an intricate question and one of the most difficult subjects before the Conference, for the reason that so many elements enter into the proper solution of it. A solution can be found only through free discussion among the experts who represent the various powers. The delegates from Japan enter the Conference with the desire that they may reach mutually satisfactory basis for a reduction of armaments and that whatever conclusions may be reached Japan shall be found ready to join in any measures for reductions consistent with her defensive security."

Mr. Hara came to Tokio as a young man to seek his fortune, working at whatever he could and completing his education as best he might.

He turned to journalism when journalism was still in its infancy in Japan, joining the staff of the Hochi. He followed Marquis Inouye to Korea as a newspaper corerspondent in 1882 when Inouye was sent as special envoy. Later he became an official in the Foreign Office. He was consul in Tientsin, then secretary and charge d'affaires in Paris. There followed a few years of service in the Department of Agriculture and Commerce, rising to be Vice-Minister of that department in 1895. In the following year he was Minister to Korea and in 1897 he left official life to return to journalism as chief editor of the Osaka Mainichi.

When Prince Ito launched the Seiyukai party in 1900, Mr. Hara was his right hand man, which he continued to be as long as Ito retained the leadership of the party. The title of leadership of the party fell to Prince Saionji after it was relinquished by Ito, but Hara has been the actual chief of the party for more than a decade. He filled his first cabinet post in 1900, when he was named to succeed Hoshi as Minister of Communications. There was another interlude of journalism, as editor of the Osaka Shimpo, then a return to the cabinet, which he left with the fall of the Seiyukai Cabinet in 1908.

In that year and the following he visited the United States and Europe. His career for the next few years was uneventful, but he re-entered the Cabinet in 1913-14 as Minister of Home Affairs. In 1918, after the fall of the Terauchi Cabinet, he succeeded to the Premiership after it had been held temporarily by Prince Saionji for a brief period. He had been the head of the nation's government for more than three years when he was assassinated.

Mr. Hara is survived by his widow and his adopted son, Mr. Mitsugi Hara, a young man of 21, who left Japan two weeks ago on the liner Sardinia for England, where he intended to enter Cambridge University. A younger brother of the Premier also survives, besides numerous distant relatives.

Presidio First Spot To Be Settled By Spaniards Of Old

San Francisco, the historical.

Glancing backward over the years, the most casual student cannot help but find in the narrative of San Francisco's growth, from the hour of the city's first settlement down to the present day of constant expansion, the tingle of real, human drama and a constant coloring of romance. From the day when the waters of the bay were first discovered and Yerba Buena, as the city was first known, was settled by the Spanish and on through the years of the gold rush, the atmosphere of the place has been one of constant stir. The early settlers, the American pioneers of the later days—all were men of action and the impress of their deeds and early struggles are still brought to mind by names and landmarks still remaining for us to recall and see.

OLD PRESIDIO

Among the many spots in the city which still recall to the mind the drama and history of the early days, the Presidio, our far-famed military establishment, shares with the Mission Dolores the honor of being the earliest of San Francisco's points of historical interest.

The date, September 17, 1776, the year in which America sent forth to the world her Declaration of Independence from the British, is accepted as the time when the Spanish garrison, under the command of Lieutenant Don Jose Joaquin Moraga, including soldiers, their wives, with seven families of resident settlers and their servants, started the construction of barracks and buildings on the ground that is now occupied by the buildings which house the United States military forces here. There were 193 original settlers, including the garrison and Spanish soldiers.

The Presidio of those days was, very naturally, a far different place than that we see today. A few straggling houses, adobe, of course, a home for the commander of the Spanish forces, together with a warehouse for the storing of provisions and arms, were all of the buildings on the reservation.

One of these old houses is still in existence and is numbered among the real landmarks of the city, being the oldest building in San Francisco today, three weeks older than the Mission building.

OLD ROAD TO MISSION

In the old days the Presidio was connected with the Mission Dolores by an old dirt road which would cross, in a straggling line, most of the streets in the Western Addition of today. Over this road the inhabitants of the Presidio journeyed to the Mission on Sundays for mass and along this road the Spanish soldiery clanged and marched.

At the top of the hill, at a spot now known as the intersection of Pacific avenue and Lyon street, the Spanish garrison established a lookout, where a sharp eye was kept for any craft that might appear in the bay. Here a sentry was usually stationed, but today the place is occupied by modern apartment buildings and flats. This was called "El Devisadero," meaning a lookout point. It is from this name that Divisadero street receives its name.

The story of the Presidio after the Spanish settlement is an interesting one. After the American occupation of California and the cession of the state to the Government of the country the Presidio was, as it is today, an important military reservation. Here many officers of the United States army served who later blazoned their names on history's page through services rendered in the Civil War.

Today the Presidio is the most important American military reservation on the Pacific coast. During the Spanish war the place was alive with marching troops, the regiments destined to see service camping there before taking transport for the Philippine islands. But in the early days when what is now the city was a waste of sand dunes and the waters of the bay covered a great part of what is now the wholesale district the Presidio was the only spot here, with the exception of the Mission Dolores, that knew the stir of human living and dying.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

The Old Lady Of Harmondsworth

One of the most curious manias that beset mortals is the passion for Owning Things.

I was much intrigued by a story I heard recently, a story which came out as a result of an auction held not long ago at Harmondsworth, England.

It was of a gay old lady who blew in a fortune on clothes that nobody ever saw her wear, on furniture that no visitors were ever asked to see and on gold and silver plate and costly china from which no guests ever ate.

This lady, Mrs. Mary Saunders, a widow of eighty-two, lived in a big ramshackle house at Harmondsworth alone, save for a gardener, ever since her husband died eleven years ago. She let the house and grounds fall into woeful disrepair, and the neighbors knew by the same token that she was poor.

But after she died her relatives inventoried her belongings and they found that the sedentary old lady could have outdressed the whole community put together. For the inventory showed Mrs. Saunders owned 400 undergarments, 150 blouses, 400 handkerchiefs, 12 dozen gloves, 14 dozen pairs of stockings, 12½ dozen aprons, and 250 fancy cloths. And she had 14 bedrooms.

I can see this little old lady in my mind's eye, as she goes through her bureau drawers and counts her gloves, as she spreads her stockings out on the bed and rejoices at the memory of the bargain battles in which she won them, and as she lights the lamp and sits down to spend a sociable evening with her 200 silver spoons.

But we can't help thinking that the baby playing with its toes, Omar with his loaf and jug and musical lady friend under his bough the early bird feasting upon his worm, the barefoot boy fishing in the creek, the hobo cooking his stolen hen over a fire of railway ties, and patient No. 216 sitting in his cell laughing at his fingers, are getting more out of life than this woman who got what every woman wants.

Nothing more appals me than to enter a living room as full of furniture as a junk shop. There is a lady of my acquaintance who prides herself on two things, each horrible in itself, and the two taken together four times more horrible. She loves abundant and gimcracks and also dim lights.

When I call upon her I enter her reception room with a silent prayer that I may not break my neck.

There are all sorts of sly low footstools to trip me and treacherous little spider-legged tables loaded with breakables for me to run against and jutting bookcases and cupboards ready to knock me in the head and every light so obscured with petticoats that I can't see.

I want to go to Japan, where there is nothing at all in the parlor, and when you go to visit Mr. Ho Riki he sends out and has a vase brought in and deposited in the middle of the floor for you to behold and to admire, and when you leave the servant takes it back and puts it away in the cellar along with the other truck, where it belongs.

I sympathise with the man in the story who ran into a lamppost. This man had been to a party, in the good old days when the booze flowed undammed by sumptuary laws and undamned by reformers. There he had imbibed freely. He started to walk home afoot, and before long his devious footsteps led him plump against the lamppost.

He backed off and tried to go another direction, but once again he ran into the same lamppost. He tried it again, but always came back to find himself struggling in the embrace of the same obstacle. Whereupon he lifted his voice in despair and, raising his hands, exclaimed:

"Lost! Lost in an impenetrable forest!"

Let all young and hopeful souls who read this take up a better ambition. Let them buy furniture for their minds and ornaments for their dispositions.

Accumulate such goods as kindness, contentment, enthusiasm, love of reading, patience and optimism. Such things are cheaper and do not take up so much room.

U. S. Govt. Studies Pacific Cable And Radio Lines

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Oct. 8.—The question of adequate cable and wireless communication with the Far East has come into prominence again, due to the lack of proper facilities for handling news of the Conference on the Limitation of Armaments. With the view of improving this service, radio tests over the northern circuit were started by the American Government on October 6. Messages are transmitted from the wireless station at St. Paul's Island in the Aleutian group.

For some time this Government has been studying the cable situation closely. Senator Wesley L. Jones, of the State of Washington, is sponsoring a bill providing for a new cable, constructed, operated and maintained by the United States. President Harding and his Cabinet are inclined to await the results of experiments now being carried out by radio. It is well known that administration leaders would prefer to see private enterprise back the venture, with Government control only as a final resort.

HUGHES GIVES APPROVAL

Secretary Hughes, of the State Department, expressed the Government's policy regarding a new cable in a letter to the President, as follows:

"I beg to express my entire agreement with your suggestion that the provision of such services (construction of a new cable) should be left, in the first instance, to American enterprise. I am of the opinion that private enterprise should be given the opportunity to say what needs they are willing and able to provide but that, if private enterprise is unable or unwilling to meet the needs of the Government and the public, the Government should then, but not until then, seek the necessary authority from Congress.

"At the present time there is only one cable from the United States to the Philippines, namely, the cable of the Commercial Pacific Cable Company running from San Francisco via Honolulu and Midway to Guam and thence one spur branching off to the Philippines and China and the other spur running northward from Guam to the Bonin Islands, where it connects with a cable of the Japanese Government which runs from the Bonin Islands to Tokio, Japan.

NEW CABLE PLANNED

"Recently, however, the Commercial Pacific Cable Company has presented a petition for a license to land and operate a cable from San Francisco to Hawaii, on to Midway Islands, and thence direct to Japan, provided suitable arrangements can be made for operation in Japan. In the event that suitable arrangements cannot be made with the Japanese, the company proposes to lay the cable from Midway to Guam, where it will connect with the Company's existing cable to Japan via the Bonin Islands.

"The new cable would then be used primarily for American-Japanese traffic, while the traffic between the United States and the Philippines and China would be carried on by the existing cable from Guam to the Philippines and China.

"Furthermore, the Western Union has applied for a license to lay and operate a cable from some point still to be determined on the West Coast to Hawaii, Midway Islands, Guam, the Philippines and thence to some suitable point in the Republic of China. It is possible that one, if not both these companies, will be willing to modify its plan so as to meet our needs as regards lower rates, as well as improved facilities.

RADIATE FROM YAP

"Before the war, the Commercial Pacific Cable Company enjoyed an additional means of reaching China by connecting at Guam with the German cable system, centering at Yap. Three lines radiated from Yap, one to Guam, one to the Dutch East Indies at Menado, and one formerly connected Yap with Shanghai, but, after the Japanese took possession of Yap, they diverted this cable to Naba, one of the southern islands of Japan.

"The allocation of the German cables centering at Yap has been the subject of discussion at the Preliminary Communications Conference and negotiations are still proceeding. The American Delegates to the Conference have contended that the service which we enjoyed in the past should be restored and it is probable that the cable from Guam to Yap will be alloted to the Government of the United States.

"Whatever the decision may be with regard to the German cables, it will have an important bearing upon any plan that may be formulated and submitted for your approval looking to the improvement of cable communications in the Pacific.

"I may also state that the Inter-Department Committee on Communications has been considering Pacific communications and a subcommittee has been authorised to tabulate the needs for additional services. This work is now under way and it is expected that a preliminary survey will soon be completed.

FOR BENEFIT OF ALL

"It is undoubtedly desirable for political, strategic and commercial reasons that every effort should be made to improve and extend existing communication facilities across the Pacific, on proper terms, for the benefit of both the Government and the public.

"Although it may be true that because of the great distance and large outlays required if trans-Pacific communications are to be developed from the larger viewpoint of furthering intercourse and trade, the Government may find it necessary to provide certain services, nevertheless, at the present moment, I venture to believe that it would be the course of wisdom not to commit the Treasury to any large outlay, even to the extent suggested by Senator Jones, pending the completion of a survey of our needs for radio as well as cable communications in the Pacific and the decision with regard to the allocation of the German cables around Yap, and then only after it shall have been determined that the problem cannot be taken care of by private enterprise."

Secretary of War, John W. Weeks, agrees with Mr. Hughes on the matter of a new cable. In referring to that paragraph of Senator Jones' bill requiring the proposed cable to be of American manufacture and operation, he remarkel:

"The desirability of this provision cannot be questioned. It may be impossible at this time to manufacture this cable in the United States, and, even if factory facilities and the necessary trained help were at hand, the obtaining of an adequate supply of guttapercha would be extremely difficult, as the entire supply of this commodity is very limited and is controlled by British interests.

"This provision of the bill might, therefore, delay cable construction for several years. The authorising of a foreign-made cable paid by foreign ships would delay indefinitely the development of cable-making facilities in the United States and the resulting damage would be greater than that arising from a delay of a few years in the completion of the cable."

PAOTING PARLEY WILL BRING UP STOPPING OF SUN

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Nov. 10.—Delegates of the various provinces which will be represented at the conference at Paotingfu, which is scheduled for November 15, are beginning to proceed to that city and it is expects to reach Paotingfu in time reported that General Wu Pei-fu for the conference in spite of the delays to which he has been subjected. The original plan of Wu was to arrive there before this time but due to the death of his wife and to the pressure of his duties at Wuchang he has found it imposible to carry out his original plans.

General Chang Tso-lin has appointed as his representative at the conference General Chang Chin-hui, Commander-in-Chief of the Urga Expeditionary Army and Tartar General of Charhar. Central Chang is now in Peking and is expected to leave for Paotingfu within the next few days while the provinces, which have been invited to send delegates to the conference, have instructed their representatives in the capital to represent them at Paotingfu.

Chang Tso-lin is reported to have decided to bring up through his representative the question of sending an expeditionary force to the relief of Kiangsi which is now being threatened by the so-called punitive expedition of Dr. Sun Yat-sen against the North. General Chang Chin-hui will, it is supposed, bring up this matter regarding which some steps, such as the selection of the troops for the army, have already been taken. The main force will be made up of the whole body of the troops of the thirtieth division and the sixth and seventh mixed brigades while a subsidiary force will be composed of picked troops from the eighth mixed brigade.

PAN FU'S CHANCE AT SHANTUNG IS DEEMED SLIGHT

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Nov. 10.—The position of civil governor of Shantung, which will shortly be vacated by General Tien Chung-yu, is being contested for by a number of candidates, according to Chinese reports on the question.

The two principal candidates are Mr. Pan Fu, the ex-vice-minister of Finance, and Mr. Chang I-ling who has the joint support of Generals Wu Pei-fu and Tsao Kun. Other aspirants for civil control of the province seem to be disqualified because of lack of the necessary support.

The chance of Mr. Pan getting the position now seems negligible but it is also very doubtful if Mr. Chang would accept the office if it were offered to him. A joint telegram is said to have been received by the government signed by Wu Pei-fu and Tsao Kun recommending his appointment, but as Mr. Chang hopes to obtain the speakership of the provincial assembly it is very doubtful if he wants the position. He is from Kiangsu, has been a former minister of education, is very much in favor of the Lushan Convention project, and is very close to General Wu.

Another element in the situation which would tend to minimize the chance of Mr. Chang being the next civil governor of Shantung is the attitude of the people of that province. For some time they have been declaring the principle of "Shantung for the Shantungese" and it remains to be seen whether or not they would accept as governor the citizen of another province.
